Abstract

An omnidirectional imaging apparatus obtains images over an entire hemispherical field and uses a mapping matrix to define a relationship between pixels in a user-defined perspective or panoramic viewing window and pixel locations on the original omnidirectional image. This allows the computation of non-distorted images in real-time without relying on complex high-order non-linear equations.

R0106320.DOC